

The Daily Courant.

Tuesday, June 29. 1708.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated June 26.

Basil, June 17.

THE Diet of the Evangelick Cantons, that was held at Aran is ended; but 'tis said they have again refer'd the Affair of the County of Tokenbourg, which has so long been depending, to the ensuing general Diet of the whole Helvetick Body, which is to be held at Baden in 7 or 8 Days. There is a perfectly good understanding between the Regency of Tokenbourg, of both Religions: and thus the Protestants continue without any Molestation the Exercise of their Religion in the Places where they are superiour to the Roman Catholics, and have re-taken Possession of two Churches, which were shut up; but in the Places where these last are strongest, they persist still in refusing to give Leave to the Protestants to Sing Psalms. In the Country of Vaux a great Quantity of Corn is buying up for the Duke of Savoy, which is to be carry'd into Piemont upon Mules: At this the French are so much alarm'd, that they talk of forming a Camp in the Chablais.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated June 29.

Antwerp, June 29. Letters from Switzerland of the 17th Instant say, that the Differences concerning Tokenbourg not only increas'd, but seem'd to threaten a bad Issue. The Abbot of St. Gal is unalterable, nor will in the least recede from his Pretensions, so that the Affair will be difficult to reconcile. Some Cantons have given Orders to their Inhabitants to provide themselves with Arms, and are raising Magazines of great Stores of Provisions. The French Ambassador seems very zealous to reconcile the Affair of Tokenbourg, but whether he really wishes for an Accommodation or not, is very uncertain. 'Tis hop'd that the General Diet which is to be held at Baden the 24th, will put a final End to this Matter. Letters from Milan of the 12th say, that the Queen of Spain made her publick Entry into that City the Day before, and that her Majesty would continue there till the 23^d or 24th, and then set out for Genoa, where she is to embark for Barcelona on board the English Fleet under Admiral Leake, who is likewise to transport thither 8 or 9000 Men to reinforce the Army of King Charles.

From the Brussels Gazette, dated June 26.

Hambourg, June 18. The Imperial Commission for the Pacification of the Troubles that have lately been in this City, will be open'd in a Day or two; and M. Burchardi, the Prussian President, who is return'd hither, will be present. 'Tis agreed to pay the Troops of the Circle 200000 Crowns, that is to say, 60000 before the said Troops depart from hence for their own Country, and the remaining 140000 at two several Terms; so that as soon as the said Troops have receiv'd the first Payment, they will forthwith Evacuate this Neighbourhood. The King of Denmark is expected in two Days at Rensbourg from Coldingen, where he is to review the Garrison. The 300 Dragoons who are at Altena, will march in a Day or two, to joyn the rest of their Regiment at Itzehoe, where they are to be review'd likewise, but 'tis not certain that the King will go to Gluckstadt. General Gerdsdorff has the command of the Danish Troops that are in Bavaria, since the death of General Alefeldt, who dy'd at Ratisbon.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated June 26.

Hambourg, June 22. Two more of our Burghers are put under Confinement; and M. Beutin, Pastor of the Dome, is depos'd. The Magistracy have publish'd a Placard, forbidding all sorts of Persons to facilitate the Desertion of the Soldiers of the Troops of the Circle of Lower Saxony, upon pain Corporal Punishments, beside a Fine of 100 Crowns. The King of Denmark arriv'd the 20th at Rensbourg to review his Troops in Holstein. His Majesty has answer'd the Letter which the Emperour and the Princes, who are the Directors of the Lower Circle of Saxony writ to him the 25th of last Month, concerning the Reasons that had induc'd them to send Troops to Hambourg.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated June 26.

Francfort, June 20. The Elector of Hanover is laying two Bridges over the Rhine, at Daxland and at Philipsbourg, in order to pass that River, designing after he has possess'd himself of the French Lines at Lauterbourg, which 'tis said are weakly guarded, to attack Haguenau and Fort-Louis. All the Waggon and Horses, which his Electoral Highness has desir'd of our Magistrates and of the Neighbouring Towns, are got ready, and will be marching in two or three Days for the Army, with several Pieces of heavy Cannon. We have Letters from Vienna of the 9th Instant which say, that the Emperour is not well pleas'd at the Reception which the Venetians gave to the Queen of Spain, at her arrival and in her passage through the Territories of their Republick.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated June 26.

From the Elector of Hanover's Camp near Daxland; June 19. We are Working with all Diligence to lay a Bridge over the Rhine near this Place, in order to pass that River without loss of time; and 'tis said the Design is to force the Lines of Lauterbourg, and then to form the Siege of Haguenau, and to block up very closely the Fortress of Fort-Louis: All which 'tis believ'd will be the more easily effected, because the Enemy have not left above 10000 Men behind those Lines, the greatest part of the Troops which they had in Alsatia, having been detach'd towards the Saar, and the Moselle.

Paris, June 18. On Thursday last the Pope's Nunco had a private Audience of the King; and after having represent'd to him that the Emperour threaten'd to besiege Ferrara in the Ecclesiastical State, and seem'd to design to make use of the Pretensions of the Duke of Modena to that Province, to Revenge himself on Clement XI. for that he had all upon Occasions shewn a great respect and deference for his Majesty, he besought him to assist that Pontiff, and to maintain his Interest, against the Insults and Pretensions of the Emperour and of the Duke of Modena; which his Majesty promis'd him to do; and has farther sent Orders to the Cardinal de la Trimouille at Rome, to assure the Pope of prompt Succours and Assistance in case of need. The Marquis of Guerlay who is gone for his Embassy of Switzerland has Instructions to treat with the Roman Catholick Cantons for some Thousands of Men to be sent to the Pope: to whom the King of Spain has by his Ministers given the like Assurances: and 'tis said that Cardinal Palucci, the Pope's first Minister, has propos'd a League to the Venetians between the See of Rome, that Republick, lick, the Great Duke of Tuscany, and the Duke of Parma, for their common Defence and Safety. Several Expresses from the Elector of Bavaria are arriv'd at Court with Advice that he was come to Saar-Louis, and that by the 17th of this Month he should have an Army of 30000 Men: That he had put all our Frontier Places on the Saar and on the Moselle in a Condition not to fear any Insult from the Enemy. The Intendant of Toulon is still here, and refuses to return thither till the Court have furnish'd him with the Money for which he came to solicit. He represented a great while ago that it would be safest to send by Land to Catalonia, the great Convoy of Ammunition and Provisions, which was lately taken by the Enemy; his Advice was rejected, as being too Expensive, but we now begin to repent that we did not follow it. The King is gone this Day to Petit Bourg, a Country Seat belonging to the Marquis of Antin; he is to lie there to Night, and to Morrow will go to Fontainebleau, where his Majesty will continue till the end of August, and then return to Versailles.

Plymouth, June 25. On the 23d came in her Majesty's Ships, Exeter, Worcester and Bedford, and under their Convoy the New England Fleet, &c. last from Kingfall. Brought in by the Exeter a French Privateer of 6 Guns and 50 Men; Sent in by the Mary, the May-flower of Londonderrey, with Wine, Brandy, &c. from Rochel: My Lord Dursley is now coming in with several Men of War from Cruising.

Shields, June 25. This Week arriv'd here a large Fleet of light Colliers from the Southward, with 2 Men of War.

Yarmouth, June 25. This Day sail'd out of our Roads the Russia Fleet under Convoy of 3 Men of War, viz. Chatham, Tilbury, Ruby, Newcastle, and Gosport.

Portsmouth, June 26. This Day came in to Spit-head her Majesty's Ships Humber, Suffolk and Nightingal from the Downes.

Harwich, June 26. Yesterday pass'd by this Port a Fleet of laden Colliers for the River.
